Hi Guidance

While the start of the school year may not be going as planned, we do have some good news for your recently graduated Year 12 students. For those who are still undecided about their study options or considering alternative pathways, Griffith University has developed two undergraduate certificates that can be completed in as little as six months.

Each certificate comprises four courses and is recognised by the Australian Qualifications Framework (AQF). Successful completion of either of these certificates will award a passing grade for all four courses as well as a minimum rank of 77.00. Completion of the Undergraduate Certificate in STEM will also satisfy the English subject prerequisite for Griffith degrees. Both undergraduate certificates provide Commonwealth Supported Places (CSP), therefore upfront costs are comparable to the cost of a degree.

Undergraduate Certificate in STEM Foundations

This is a great introduction to university study, ideal for students who aren't sure what career they want to pursue. It also provides a credit pathway to nine different Griffith undergraduate degrees.

Undergraduate Certificate in Education

Providing a great way for students to begin a pathway to study education. Courses in this certificate mirror those taught in the first year of the Bachelor of Education, offering a direct pathway into this degree without accruing additional study time.

How to apply

Students will need to update their application via the QTAC website, adding their preferred undergraduate certificate as their first preference. Applications to commence study in Trimester 1 2022 close on 13 February 2022.
